5 Top Q&A PROGRAMME DIRECTOR

Top 5 questions about the Master of Science in Marketing programme, answered by our Programme Director

Prof.
Tak Zhongqiang
Huang.

1 Is the programme based on theory and concepts only? What practical aspects are there?

The programme combines both practice and theory. Plenty of real-world business examples will be used to illustrate the marketing concepts and theories using up-to-date cases and students will be required to apply the learned theories and concepts in exercises and projects.

2 What type of student is most suitable to study marketing?

Students who are outgoing, curious, people-oriented and communicative are generally more suitable to study marketing. The programme is designed to help students with a prior business / marketing background to deepen their marketing knowledge and equip non-business students with the necessary marketing knowledge and skills to develop a business career.

3 With technology advancements and the change of habit towards online activities, how can the Master of Science in Marketing help match the trend?

Our faculty stays at the forefront of the latest marketing tech and digital-cultural trends by providing multiple courses on technology and online consumer behaviours. Beyond this, we give students a firm grounding in the scientific theory and thinking behind marketing (e.g., statistical analyses and social science theory), which once mastered, provide students with a lifetime of value.

4 How will taking other Master Programmes' electives benefit my career in Marketing?

Students can take electives from other programmes, such as Business Analytics, where they can learn in depth about the most cutting-edge tools such as Python, Deep Learning, and Big Data analysis. Students can also learn about technology, entrepreneurship, and launching new innovations.

5 Marketing is very culture specific. After studying the programme, would I be able to apply the knowledge and skills learned outside of Hong Kong?

The programme is designed to cover marketing knowledge at both a global level and a local adaptation (Hong Kong and Mainland China). The programme provides an understanding on how business models must transform and adapt to the local markets.

The Master of Science in Marketing programme at the HKU Business School highly valuable. It not only strengthens our marketing theory foundation but also emphasizes practical skills development. For instance, we are given the opportunity to work with data processing tools and even simulate company operations on the Markstrat platform, experiencing a series of real-life business decision-making processes. My journey with the Marketing programme at HKU Business School was truly transformative. The curriculum seamlessly blends theory and practice, which honed my skills in marketing strategy analysis, data-driven decision-making, and so on.

The most memorable part of my learning experience was serving as a student ambassador. In this role, I was actively involved in planning and executing many campus events. These experiences not only refined my organisational skills but also connected me with alumni across diverse industries. Through these interactions, I was able to deepen my understanding of different fields.

During my time at HKU, I developed strong teamwork and leadership skills, along with a passion for lifelong learning. These qualities are invaluable in dynamic work environments, proficiently equipping me to take on new challenges.

Hoi Ching Lo

The Master of Science in Marketing Programme was instrumental in shaping my strategic approach to today's dynamic financial services landscape. The programme's blend of forward-thinking marketing theory - from consumer behaviour analytics to digital brand management - equipped me with the expertise to craft data-driven strategies that resonate across diverse markets. Collaborating with peers from diverse backgrounds enabled me to blend creative thinking with analytical rigour – something I now leverage daily to drive customer engagement and boost competitiveness. Faculty members, like Professor Tak Huang, integrated real-world expertise into the classroom, challenging us to rethink traditional frameworks and embrace agile marketing practices.

The university's career support also played a pivotal role in my positive experience. Leadership workshops and alumni networking accelerated my transition into the professional world. Today, I apply ethical, customer-centric marketing strategies to lead initiatives that bridge traditional banking with digital-first experiences.

Lu Bai

Master of Science in Marketing
(Class of 2025)

My experience at HKU Business School was brief yet incredibly rewarding, filled with surprises and growth. Initially, I didn't have high expectations for studying abroad in Hong Kong, but both the city and the school exceeded them in every way. Hong Kong, with its unique blend of Eastern and Western cultures, provided me with a comforting sense of familiarity while constantly offering new and exciting experiences. At HKU, I was fortunate to meet like-minded peers who made my journey even more fulfilling. As a member of the House Committee, I was amazed by the variety and quality of events organised by the school. In short, this journey has significantly contributed to both my personal development and career readiness. I'm truly grateful for my time here.
