Family wealth management is a multifaceted endeavor that extends beyond financial transactions and balance sheets. It involves a comprehensive understanding of familial dynamics, values, and the intricate tapestry of history woven through generations. Therefore, historical lessons enable family managers today to understand the present and plan for the future.

Top 4 Q&A PROGRAMME DIRECTOR

Top 4 questions about the Master of Family Wealth Management programme, answered by our Programme Director

Ms. Bonnie Leung.

2 Why a taught master's programme dedicated to family wealth management?

The wealth management industry saw strong growth in recent decades, and despite greater market uncertainty in the last few years, demand for professionals to manage wealth continues to grow. In particular, families are increasingly seeking advice on how to holistically manage their wealth, business and legacy. While there are many finance and accounting postgraduate programmes in Hong Kong and the region, the Master of Family Wealth Management degree at HKU fills a gap in specialized knowledge that caters to the unique needs of family offices, high-net-worth families and private wealth management.

3 Who should apply Master of Family Wealth Management?

The Master of FWM programme is suitable for a wide range of prospective students. Potential student profiles may include, but not limited to recent university graduates looking to complement their undergraduate majors with more well-rounded post-graduate studies; early career professionals looking to expand horizons or upgrade skills; and younger members of families seeking insights on family wealth management, succession planning, family business development, and governance. At the heart, the programme caters to those who are passionate about managing family wealth and family office, regardless of their prior education and work.

Students will also be encouraged to self-organise other extracurricular activities to further class camaraderie.

Student Experience Sharing

Hairou Li

Master of Family Wealth Management
(Class of 2025)

Coming from a non-finance background, I was initially quite nervous about joining the Master of Family Wealth Management Programme. Some of the concepts were unfamiliar at first, and there were moments when I had to work extra hard to keep up. However, it always felt like I was just one small step away from understanding. With the steadfast support of my professors and classmates, I was able to 'stand on my tiptoes' and reach further than I thought I could!

What surprised me most was how welcoming and helpful everyone was. The professors were approachable, patient, and truly invested in our growth. I also made some genuine friendships with people I can rely on, as well as learn and laugh with. Last but not least, I was given the chance to explore internships in the finance industry, which gave me a completely new perspective on the business world. Ultimately, this programme has been an eye-opening experience I'll carry with me for life - both personally and professionally.
